FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Work to Begin on N-91

Weather permitting, work is scheduled to begin on several structures on N-91, east of US-81 the last week of March, according to the Nebraska Department of Roads.

Work will include replacement of a bridge located one mile east of US-81, as well as the bridge over Meridian Creek located five miles east of US-81. The project will also include work on culverts five and one half miles east and eight and one half miles east of Highway 81, as well as a culvert on the Creston Spur (S-71C).

Traffic will be controlled by temporary traffic signals while work is in progress at each site. Local access will be maintained for landowners and residents along the highway throughout the duration of the project.
